Family Sharing is included in this price, so all members of the Family can use the games in the service at no additional cost. With so many games available in the service, there is something for everyone here, including some nice retro arcade games. Unlimited games, a flat-rate Apple Arcade with more than a hundred premium games more added regularly. There is a little something for everyone and it costs less than the morning latte! Studio: Devolver Age rating: 12+ Use a game controller? Yes Source: Apple This is a follow-up to the hugely popular Enter the Gungeon, except now you're doing the opposite: get out of there, ASAP! Since the previous Gungeoners were successful, the Gungeon is now a paradox and crashes into itself and you need to quit the Gungeon. You'll need to make your way through each elevator shaft level and fight off hordes of demons with your single, everchanging weapon. It starts as a simple peashooter, but as you blast the enemy away, your weapon will evolve every few minutes, giving you even awesome abilities and range, or it may get worse and you'll just have to learn to adapt. As you get stuck in the elevator and fend off the enemy with your ever-changing weapon, make sure you roll over your attacks and snuggle up as much as you can. You will only be able to do as much damage before it is a mistake, so you will need good platform skills and quick reflexes in order to survive. Even if you've never played Enter the Gungeon, Exit the Gungeon is an enjoyable experience for anyone who loves a challenge. You're going to die a lot, but you're going to be learning from your mistakes and getting better every run (hopefully). See Apple Arcade Dodo Peak Studio: Moving Pieces Age Rating: 4+ Use a game controller? Yes Source: Apple Dodo Peak is a cute arcade platformer that serves as a big little throwback for classic arcade platformers of the past, but with a modernized twist. You have to play as a dodo bird who has lost his baby egg in a series of dangerous peaks. You need to help maneuver the mother dodo to safely return them and bring them home where they belong. Along the way, you will find coins that you can use to purchase new and unique dodos. There are also dangerous enemies at peaks like snakes and monkeys – be sure to grab those power-ups with a nice speed or force boost. Dodo Peaks controls are simple enough for everyone in the family and even have control support for those who like it. As your pack grows, so does the difficulty. This is a great game for those who like to see the rank in the leaderboard. Plus, the graphics are beautiful, and the soundtrack is fun to listen to. See Apple Arcade The Pinball Wizard Studio: Frosty Pop Games Age rating: 4+ Use the Yes Source: Apple Love Pinball, RPG, and Dungeon Crawlers? A Wizard is a bit of everything, making it a unique and fun arcade adventure experience. With pinball wizard, you can explore a tower that you need to rise if you want your wisdom to offer up at the very top. But in order to reach it, you have to get through every floor that's set up like an old-fashioned pinball machine. The main hero gets driven into the skirmish with a series of fins at the entrance of each level. Your goal is to survive, collecting treasure and enduring the enemy long enough for the key to unlock the door leading to the next stage. The sections start simple enough, but the enemies you encounter just get more challenging and you have a limited amount of health (although you can press the health concoction barrel to heal) to get you to the tower. The Pinball Wizard definitely offers an interesting take on arcade adventure by combining pinball, RPG, and dungeon crawler one. The graphics make the simple low-poly aesthetic that most find pleasurable, and the music and sound effects are quirky and cute. This is definitely one that should not be missed. See Apple Arcade Dead End Job Studio: Headup GmbH Age rating: 9+ Use the gamepad? Yes Source: Apple If you're a fan of dual-stick shooter games, then Dead End Job is a good one to pick up. This Dead End job isn't what you expected. You're Hector Plasm, employee of Ghoul-B-Gone, a paranormal pest control company. The task is to get rid of the haunted offices, restaurants, houses, and other seemingly normal buildings, and then get rid of some unwanted ghosts that seem to have made the building their own. You're equipped with Hector Plasm with a vacuum pack on your back and a plasma blaster in your hand. Aim well with your sure hand, blast those ghosts and then suck them into the vacuum of your collection! After all, someone has to do it. The art of Dead End Job is reminiscent of the old 90s Saturday morning cartoons, so it's definitely a nice throwback. The game also has a great sense of humor, and the soundtrack is pretty epic. While you can play the game with touch screen controls, it works better with the actual controller, especially at later, more hectic levels. See Apple Arcade for the rest of Frogger's Toy Town Studio: Konami Age Rating: 4+ Use a gamepad? Yes Source: Apple Frogger in Toy Town is a modernized take on the classic Frogger game. Except instead of real cars and highways, you're in a toy box world with harmless items that you wouldn't think were dangerous, but everything else in the eyes of a little frog. In Frogger, Toy Town, a tornado swept through a quiet town, causing quite a stir everywhere, and it also picked up some unsuspecting frogs, scattering them across human houses. Frogger is the only one who has managed to find shelter and now has to save the froglets. Control Frogger swipes or taps the screen to direct the movement that you're looking for your friends and avoid danger with toy cars, blocks, stovetops, and more obstacles. Unfortunately Controls aren't as sensitive as they should be, so the game is more frustrating than fun. It's also quite glitchy, according to some players. See Apple Arcade PAC-MAN Party Royale Studio: BANDAI NAMCO Age Rating: 4+ Use a gamepad? No Source: Apple PAC-MAN is a classic, so expect PAC-MAN Party Royale to be a great modern take on the tried and true PAC-MAN formula. Pac-MAN Party Royale allows you and up to three friends to play together in online multiplayer mode, in which everyone plays as long as only one PAC-MAN remains on their feet. Who can catch the Super Pellet, which makes you an unstoppable chomping machine, first? Every PAC-MAN that gets eaten becomes a ghost who will want revenge. If no one is ahead enough, the 256-glitch occurs in which the maze begins to collapse for everyone and the safe area shrinks until there is only one PAC-MAN left. Although this game is potential, the problem is the controls. Swipe uses controls that aren't as accurate as you want. There is no control support or local multiplayer, which is a bummer. See Apple Arcade Explottens Studio: WeRPlay Age rating: 4+ Use game controller? Yes Source: Apple Cat lovers who enjoy dual-stick shooters get a kick out of Explottens and heart-pumping, hairlifting, shoot-em-up action. It's full of wild kittens and explosions, what's more than love? The Explottens, the land of Cathmandu celebrates the end of the Battle of Kittysburg. KLaw's evil kitties laid siege to Cathmandu to overthrow the democratically elected government and rule it with their iron butts. However, a group of heroic cats called KIT created a hero who wiped out KLaw. But as long as the celebration continues, it looks like KLaw isn't over yet. Explottent features bullet-hell shmup action and control the cat hero of your choice as you zip, boost, and shoot your way through the sky. There are quests complete, buddies recruit to help you out in battle and a lot of weapons and upgrades to make it even stronger. The only negative thing about the game is the fact that it can be a little too difficult for some. Plus, the difficulty level makes it so you'd need to upgrade your novice weapons that are crappy, rather than saving up for something better. It's not a game for weak cat hearts. See Apple Arcade Painty Mob Studio: Devolver Age Rating: 4+ Use a gamepad? No source: Apple Painty Mob is a frantic and chaotic little arcade game that's great for fast gaming sessions when you've got a minute. In Painty Mob, you are a colorful little creature who just goes into the sun, caring about his own business, when suddenly, you get the brilliant idea to instep all nearby citizens paint. I mean, they just need a little color in their lives. So the goal of the game is to rack up your score by painting as many unsuspecting citizens, but watch out! They're going to be mad, and if you're angry, The angry mob, then this game is over. There are also plenty of items and power-ups to pick up to help you cover your area faster. While the game is fun, things get a little too chaotic at times, so it feels like you're just running and grabbing whatever you can to see if it helps or not. Things aren't labeled as clearly as you'd like, and things just move too fast to really realize what power-ups or dangers you get. See Apple Arcade Chase for dreams and high scores in Apple Arcade for a bit of everything, including some awesome retro arcade goodness. These are the ones we've played and they're largely very enjoyable. What's your favorite? Let us know in the comments!
